ITALIAN AMNESTY.
EXILES MAY NOW RETURN BY SECRET-CROSS-COMMERCIAL ALLIANCE.

HOME, Sept. 12.—The King has signed the decree of amnesty of all those who, being arrested, have failed to perform their military service in the class of which they were born.

Those before whom these claimants who have been liable to penalties for avoiding their duty can now visit their native land without fear of molestation for that cause.

The decree of amnesty is issued to all the people of all three members of the family, and the jury found no trouble in convicting them of the circumstances of the offense.

The young man was sentenced to death.

THE office of catpaw to the Mayor does not become brave "MICK" HUNTER.

THE Mayor and the combine are of one mind on one point. Each is determined to stick.

THE summer is past and the Council combine is still in the ring knocking out the "Push."

SURT. LOHRUM intimates that the people must choose between reform and LOHRUM at the Work-house.

THE interest in the Iowa campaign would be deepened and heightened if the Republican speakers would talk about something really distressing. It is not fair to place the burden of the campaign of education on one party.

SENATOR QUAY's silence does not argue his extinguishment. His meditations will be followed by a period of pernicious activity very distressing to the Good Man who owes his election to the Presidency to the Pennsylvania politician.

THE Republican party of New York now represents what are regarded as the two chief menaces of popular liberty—the pernicious activity in politics of the Federal office-holder and the power of patronage exercised in behalf of partisans and personal ends.

MAJ. MCKINLEY has been very much annoyed while making his great anti-silver speeches in Ohio by impudent questions concerning the tariff. It is ungenerous in these Democrats thus to refer to an episode in the Major's career which he would fain forget.

THE $5,000 surplus in the Pension Bureau is a reminder to pension sharks that they have not been as active as the Reed Congress expected them to be. It is very disconcerting when men do not make the most of opportunities freely offered by a bountiful majority.

THERE never was a finer illustration of the penny-wise-and-pound-foolish policy than that the Republican party is now giving the country. The administration is forced to be miserly about the pennies in order to meet the reckless appropriation of the pounds by the late Republican Congress.

THE views of Supt. LOHRUM published in yesterday's Post-Dispatch indicate that the first essential step toward reform in the management of the Work-house is the removal of the present Superintendent. Mr. LOHRUM's methods are not in harmony with sound and humane principles of prison government. His ideas fit the Russian better than the American system of criminal punishment.

PENNSYLVANIA was enthusiastically Democratic until lured away by promises of largesse in 1880. Now that the policy then initiated has utterly broken down and none feel its failure so acutely as the poorer voters of that State, there is reason to hope that she will return to her old position. If the Democrats carry the State this year on the Quay-Bardiney issue they can probably hold it on the question of pliocracy and legalized plunder.

THE withdrawal of the subsidies hitherto accorded to the Pope by the County of Paris marks the displeasure of the reactionaries at Lao's democratic and progressive course. To look forward, not backward, seems to be the Pope's policy, and of course he is abashed by all those who are more reminiscent of ancient wrongs. If Lao's purposes are followed up by his successor the Catholic Church will enter upon a new stage of growth and influence in the development of humanity.

THE temper of the French people is shown in the action of the directors of the opera in abandoning their intention to produce "Lohengrin" before a Parisian audience. Critics have sought to explain Parisian hostility to Wagner's music on grounds purely aesthetic, but aesthetic feeling is not manifested by threats. The French people are irreconcilably opposed to everything German.

THE readers of the Globe-Democrat are to be congratulated upon enjoying the privilege of reading WALTER BESANT's story, "Quarantine Island," which was published in that paper to-day. It is an excellent story and delighted the readers of the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH on Aug. 16. The necessity of going by way of London to reach the Globe-Democrat and of receiving the stamp of British approval has made it come to its readers late, but better late than never.

THE evidence in the Musgrave case was completed by the Post-Dispatch yesterday and this final clearing of the mystery reveals the details of what appears to be one of the most remarkable attempts to swindle an insurance company on record. The purchase of the skeleton in St. Louis, its erection in the log cabin on the Wabash River, the claim for $20,000 on the supposed death of Musgrave and the other arrangements of the alleged conspirators form a daring and novel criminal plan.

THE committee appointed to look into the lid of the Pennsylvania Treasury secrets is having some difficulty in getting at the facts, owing to the absence of three men who alone can throw light on the subject. QUAY and two others have held the office for ten years and they are all incapable. As the majority of the committee is Republican, no great eagerness can be expected from them, but if QUAY can be forced to take the stand some rich developments will undoubtedly follow.

BARON HIRSCH's plan for the relief of his persecuted fellow religionists seems to be both disinterested and well considered. In making it out and out commercial venture, in which charity appears only as an incidental feature, the Baron has taken the direct path toward making its beneficiaries self-supporting. The invincible thriftiness of the Jewish character will not long remain inactive and once the way is opened the exiles will not long need help. The Jew can be depended upon to take care of himself in any circumstance short of those now subsisting in Russia.

THE Elizur case following so closely upon the trial of the Negroes in my opinion, from the point of view of the law, in a fair condition, will have to reply to your information in the location of Hickory Chute, which is above the mouth of the Illinois River, and is at the Alton packet house. It is caused by the sudden and very rapid fall in the river at the time it started inundating that of the Mississippi, which is now unable to accommodate the flood waters from the sources of drainage dependent on it. The river in this case instead inundated that of the Mississippi, which is now unable to accommodate the flood waters from the sources of drainage dependent on it.

DOING THE AISLES.

Lodge of the Mutual One-Benefit Order Dissolves.

INDIGNANT OVER THE LEVY—NUMEROUS ASSESSMENTS.

Supreme President Charles Mayer Put in an Appearance—A Asphyxiated in a Wall-Rew the Polanders—Serious Accidents Workingmen.

At Lodge No. 202, of the Mutual Benefit Order, at its meeting last Friday, the lodge was decided to disband. The Lodge was formed in 1875 with a membership of 1,000. The disbandment of the lodge was looked for some time, but the matter was laid over until its meeting. The cause leading to the abrupt termination of the career is the unbusiness-like calling of assessments. For the month of July one assessment was made for August, six for September and October. Assessments with dues, Nos. 19 and 20, were forwarded to the Supreme Lodge in Boston, after which the members were called and informed that each assessment paid, the members became fraternized by the lodge corresponded with officials, asking how many assessments this nature were to be called. An assessment was only for a short time, owing to a number of assessments.

The assessments would have been next month and then not less than two months, claim that there was no limitation on the amount of assessments.

Members that had vowed that they would not pay another assessment, the supreme president and organization, Charles Mayer, was nothing but a man that had the numerous assessments were his failure to appear. Many members that had not paid in the order of faith in the order.

Whatever debts the lodge can pay and the Secretary notified the supreme committee that the assessments were discontinued. Before going marching in a body to the Supreme Lodge were their partook of a champagne.

Three months that the lodge has been ten assessments have been received from calls for $1,000.

A LABOR ASPIRATED.

At 9 o'clock yesterday afternoon Carl W. Morrison, 111½ Franklin Street, a rear of an old house on the outskirts of the city limits, was asphyxiated and a rope led down by which he was hauled up to the surface. He was born in Virginia and spent his boyhood in Chicago. He went to Europe when he was 12 years old and studied in Munich, Paris and Berlin. He was a member of the "Minutemen," when he was 18, "David" when he was 20, and the "Burial of the Nein" when he was 22. Buffalo Bill was in Paris when the young American painter, who had painted a picture of some of Bill's Sioux Warriors to pose for his painting as the mourners of Minnehaha had not had an Indian woman to pose. He was compelled to imagine how an Indian woman looked. The result of this sort of work is seen in the picture, the man and woman of the picture.

The warriors are real and ugly and the woman has beautiful creases of the flesh. David is by far the best picture of the three.

Prof. the biggest crowd of the week except the first two days, will be at the Exposition this evening. The programme is:

THE WHITE FLEET.

Acting Rear Admiral Walker's Ships
Reach New York

SPLENDID MOVEMENTS OF THE SQUADRON OF EVOLUTION.

All Maneuvers Executed With Certainty and Precision—Steaming Through the Narrows at a Nine-Knot Speed—Efficiency and Battle Strength of the New Cruisers—Sailing Like Sea Powl.

New York Sept. 12.—Like a flight of snowy sea fowl, the squadron of evolution came bursting through the sound yesterday having left Bridgeport about 10 o'clock in the forenoon. On nearing this city the pilot insisted on running slowly in order not to reach Hell Gate till high water, but early in the afternoon Acting Rear Admiral Walker pushed ahead in the Chicago followed by the rest of the ships in close column, so that the distance of the two ships was lost. Yonkers, Bronx, Brooklyn, Manhattan and Vicksburg. At a nine-knot gait the squadron threaded its way through the narrow waters of the East River, and never checked its speed till it anchored in the North River. After rounding the battery where hundreds of people gathered to watch them, the ships kept their steady speed in such close formation that no other craft was able to make headway. Standing well over toward the New Jersey shore the Chicago passed up the North River as far as Fifteenth street and then made signal, turned back, leading ship right about with bunting flying, and then backed up the Chicago swung round to starboard in little more than twice her length and was steaming down the river when the Newark reached the turning point and imitated the maneuver.

The accuracy and precision with which these great ships executed the order in close quarters on a strong flood tide attested the admiration of even the landmen who witnessed it. The admirals had expressed their appreciation of the fine points of the evolution.

At Thirtieth street the signal to anchor was made and each ship stopped and took her position in the order above the flagship.

"In point of numbers," said Admiral Walker in the evening, "this is the strongest United States squadron that has been assembled under one flag since the Armada in May 1588." Of course, in point of fighting power the ships at Key West were far inferior to those here present.

"As for the efficiency, I need only point to their performance here. There are not even semi-other vessels in the navy that could come through Hell Gate and the East River at nine knot speed in close order—which means yards apart—the center of a column to the center of another column—and make the short turn these ships did in the North River. It is not because the officers or other ships are less capable, but because only the crews of these ships have had the necessary training having to do close quarters with other men of war. It is this training that our navy needs, and it can be given in no other way than in squadrons for-mation."

It is interesting to compare the work of these ships with that of the old navy, when two frigates would have been regarded as good for a collision at double the distance we have now. The engine power is great. Of course the engine power and rapidity of engine action are great factors in the present efficiency, but a great deal is also due to the confidence the officers have acquired by having their craft in comparing with others.

"The admiral had no information to impart concerning the future movements of the squadron, but expected to remain here for some time.

Cards Promising Domestic Better Places Left at Residences.

HOUSEKEEPERS INDIGNANT OVER WHAT THEY TERM AN OUTRAGE.

An Intelligence Office Which Has Started a New Branch of Business Which Threatens to Complicate the Servant Girl Question More Than Ever Records of Servant Girls Kept.

About 8 o'clock this morning a young man, rather neatly dressed with a sharp air about him, ran up the steps of a residence on Pine street next door to the home of Mrs. George D. Moore, a widow, and rang the doorbell. A wayward daughter of Mrs. Moore opened the ring and asked his business. "Are you the hired lady?" he asked, with insinuating gallantry.

"I am, sir," she replied in dulcet tones, relaxing the rigidity of her features.

"Do you happen to like your place?" he inquired, a grown boy.

"What's it to you?" she snapped.

"Maybe you'll like a better one?"

"But I like yours as well as any other!"

"Do you happen to be under obligation to find employment?" she replied, with a broad tinge of irony in voice and smile.

"Certainly, Miss; read that," and he handed her a card.

Are you wanting a situation?

Do you want to change your situation?

Do you want a better situation?

If so, call and see us at office.
